Eastern Editors To Visit The West

Party Leaves By Special Train on June 2nd.—will Stop Off at Many Places on Trip

On Thursday June 2nd., at 4 p.m. a special train bearing many eastern publishers and their wives will leave to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, which is to be held in Vancouver on June 9th and 10th.

The party is made up of represent Edward Island, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, and when gathered along with 200 or more of the Western Provinces' members, will constitute the largest press gathering ever held in Canada.

Through the courtesy of the C.P.R., the C.N.R., and the G.T.P. a very fine special train of ten cars will be made up. The Easterners will use this train on the entire trip.

The going journey will be made over the Canadian National lines, and the return over the Canadian Pacific. Numerous stops will be made, ranging from three hours to a day, and there stops will include many important points in the West.

On the way out stops will be made at Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Jasper Park, Kamloops, while on the return visits will be made at Lake Louise, Banff, Calgary, Regina, Port Arthur. At Vancouver there will be much entertainment, and at Victoria the Lieut Governor will give a party in honour of the visitors.

As the press party is to stop at a number of places there are no doubt many persons, now in the West, who still subscribe for the "old home paper" and who will take the opportunity to see "their editor" at one of the stopping places. If this is done it will make the trip much more enjoyable as nothing would delight the editors more than to shake the hands of old friends and subscribers in the west.

The editors will have a very pleasant duty, that of writing up the west. The railways will endeavour to show the party the most resourceful parts of the Great West, and no doubt the western men and women will have a haross anaofohaa A.trimme ETA A hearty welcome ready.

The taking of such an extensive trip by eastern weekly newspaper publishers may mean that some of the local weeklies will have to be closed down for an issue. But we are sure that the people of the East will be well repaid, for their editors will come back home inspired and encouraged and prepared to furnish some interesting reading matter about the Canadian West.

Red Cross Appeal

"The Red Cross emerged from the Great War with a record unsurpassed to save life amidst the wreck of war, it has become a sign that war shall one day cease and that the love of man will finally conquer the hate of man. It is one of the grandest agencies in the world for promoting goodwill among the nations. It has become part of the League of Nations, and constitutes an International force that will help to ennoble civilization. We have long witnessed nations organized for war; we are now to witness the grandest spectacle of organization for the promotion of Peace and health, for the mitigation of suffering and calamity."

In those words Lieut.-Governor R. G. Brett summarizes the ideals of the Red Cross, in a message to the people of Alberta. Always an ardent Red Cross supporter and worker, His Honor, calls on the public to join. He points out that the Red Cross to-day constitutes an international brotherhood of people carrying on a great work for humanity.

In concluding this stirring message the Lieut.-Governor says:

"Great as is the peace programme of the Red Cross, let us not forget that its war programme is not yet finished. Over five hundred veterans are still in the hospitals of this province, who need the services of the Red Cross. They bear the cruel wounds and diseases of war. This is the opportunity of the people of Alberta to remember them and cheer them. Many of them can never be well again. They can have no part in the work of reconstruction which we all hail with so much fervour and hope. But with their fallen comrades they have proved to us that the world is worth saving and worth reconstructing. There are hundreds of soldiers and their families in this province who are not yet fully or even partially established. They need the Red Cross service. They disdain, and rightly so, the efforts of private charity. The Red Cross can do so much to alleviate and prevent suffering in these homes."

Going To This Sale?

Why not take a few days off and take in the Pure Bred Cattle Sale at Saskatoon June 1st and 2nd. There will be 70 head of the different breeds and anyone wanting a good bull to hear his herd should be able to get at reasonable prices just what is needed. There will also be sold pure bred females and anyone contemplating the starting of a pure bred herd would do well to attend this sale, as animals of the best type and breeding go at prices the public are willing to pay. Bulls will be supplied to bona fide Sask. farmers on credit terms bearing 25 per cent. or 50 purchase price in cash balance in two years.

Under these conditions of sale there should be no excuse for farmers to use scrub sires.

This is the second annual sale to be held at Saskatoon under the auspices of the Sask. Cattle Breeders Association. The dates have been chosen to come immediately after seeding and before the breeding season starts which should make it very suitable to stockmen.

The association undertakes to provide transportation for the stock purchased at the sale for the uniform fee of $10 Saskatoon is only 160 miles from the Meridian in fact is closer than Edmonton so distance should be no barrier to the shipment of animals purchased.

Official Visit To Chauvin Rebekahs

Mrs. Rogers, President of the Rebekah Assembly, Calgary paid an official visit to the Rebekah lodge on Tuesday, May 17th. Two candidates were initiated on that evening. On the invitation of Mrs. Parcels several of the lady members met at her home, on Wednesday afternoon and a very pleasant social hour was spent, each one thus having an opportunity to become better acquainted with Mrs. Rogers. During the afternoon, Mrs. Parcels assisted by Mrs. Foxwell served a dainty lunch.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Rogers travelled to Edgerton where she paid an official visit to Ar-go-ka Rebekah lodge.

Basket Ball

A very interesting game of basketball was staged on Monday evening. The contest was between the Chauvin ladies and the High School boys. The game was close and full of many humorous incidents, especially the tumbling feats of Edward Chaill. The boys came out winners by a score of 14-8 although the ladies proved dangerous at all stages of the game.

On Friday evening the H.S. Boys journeyed to Airlie to play that team. The interest in the game was keen, and Chauvin turned out in full force to see the fun. The students went in a body and certainly enjoyed the trip. The game was clean from start to finish and very evenly contested with the exception of the second period. Airlie is to be congratulated upon the fine brand of basketball put up, and also with the kindness with which they treated the visitors. The score was 20-8 in favor of the boys altho the game was a closer one than the score would indicate. Mr Clifford took out a barrel of ice cream and treated the players all round at each intermission.

If Prosperity decides to play the second half of the series of games, they will play at Chauvin on June 4th, unless other arrangements are made.

Standing of League, Won Lost Points
H. S. Girls	4	0	61
H. S. Boys	2	1	46
Airlie	1	2	27
Teachers	1	2	21
Chauvin	0	3	25

Football Notes

The Chauvin Football Club held a business meeting on Saturday night; the following officers being elected: Captain J. R. Rawlay; Secretary Edgar Keatley; Committee C. G. Forryan; R. Mills; J. Guthrie.

A game was arranged between Airlie and Chauvin for May 24th;

Arrangements were also made for organizing a league. The matter of fixing the grounds was also discussed.

Anyone having uniforms from last year are asked to communicate with the secretary, E. Keatley.

Ribstone W. I. Notes

A play will be produced by the Ribstone W. I. on June 17th, which will be advertised later.

The fall fair is to be held on September 10th.

Ribstone L. A. Notes

The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid, Ribstone, will be held in the Municipal Hall, Saturday, May 21st.

New Steel Dining Cars: Western Lines

New Series have Many New Features and are Improvement on 1920 Delivery

The mechanical excellence of the car builder, combined with the deft touch of the artist, is reflected in the new 1921 series of all steel dining cars built recently for the Canadian National Railways. Five of these cars were assigned this week to Western Lines, and are now part of the equipment of the "Continental Limited", which operates daily between Vancouver and Montreal.

Ventilation, lighting and refrigeration are features which were given special attention—and the new cars embody other improvements suggested by dining car crews for the convenience of themselves, as well as that of the traveling public.

All are equipped with automatic electric lights which snap on when the door opens. There are specially built-in refrigerators for meat, for fish, for fowl, for salad stuff, for milk and cream. The stove has two huge ovens and steam tables besides it to hold the cooked food. Two copper tanks near the kitchen ceiling contain enough water for the preparing of three meals. Dishwashing is done by hand, machines having been proved impracticable, because they require steam which was not desirable on hot summer days. After the meal, every utensil is tucked in its place and the tables and ledges are as bare as a ship's deck.

In the pantry, connected with the kitchen by sliding windows, there are more ice chests, a ventilated bread racks, tray racks and running water, which is filtered by the latest approved process.

The dining room is furnished with light ceiling and light oak walls, almost bare of decoration, simplicity being the style edict for diners. There are dust proof ventilators and cinder deflectors for the windows. The four electric fans rotate so that they keep the air in motion without causing noticeable blast. One of the features that will appeal to mothers with small children is the tiny chair of oak, upholstered in leather like the large chairs and made to fit on them, answering the purpose of a high chair.

At the steward's end of the car is the emergency heating system which can be used if the car is cut off from the train and the emergency lighting apparatus, for use if the electric plant fails. There is a cigar locker with humidor and an ice locker for soft drinks. At the rear is a personal locker for the crew and a curtained alcove with wash basin.

Even the space beneath the car is utilized. Electricity for lighting is generated by the speed if the train by means of a dynamo swung below the car, the power being held in storage batteries. There is also a reserve bin of coal below the car. In fact when the car starts on its trip, it is a self-contained commissariat, fitted to run for days, it necessary, without taking on supplies.

Baseball Notes

The new Baseball suits have arrived. The suits are of dark green and white, the hose is of white and a lighter shade of green.

There is considerable improvement shown in the practices. The diamond has been scraped and is now in prime condition. Keep it up, boys!

Editor's Table

PUTTING IN THE CROP

Reports from throughout this district are that the wheat seeding has been entirely completed and that the coming week will see completion of work of putting in the oat crop. Also, that it has been an unusually favorable season for getting through the spring work, though the weather remained decidedly cool during the first half of May. But what the weather dacked in summerishness it made up in utility. Both men and horses did more work on cool days than on hot days; and by the standard of material results this spring has been most favorable, as the weather permitted the most work to be done in the limited during which the seed has to be got into the ground.

The farmers tell us that the wheat already two inches or more above the ground. That establishes that while the weather was cool enough to encourage activity on the part of man and beast, the conditions have been far from unfavorable for quick germination of the seed. We seem, in fact, to have been accommodated with the happy medium temperature which facilitated the maximum amount of seeding being done and at the same caused the seed sown to sprout promptly. The ample moisture supply has made up for lack of warm weather in stimulating germination and early plant growth.

Taking it all round we have had and are having a very satisfactory seeding season. That is hopeful fact, not only because it gives promise of a good crop but because it makes for the planting of a larger crop than could otherwise have been possible. The relatively low prices of farm products have not kindled any enthusiasm in the farmer to break records in the matter of acreage sown. In a good many cases the proceeds from last year's crop were not large enough to enable the farmer to hire help enough to put in as large an acreage as he cropped last year. It is not likely that the farmers have for many years, faced the seeding season with less inducement to sow as many acres as they have been cultivating. Putting it in general terms, they had not the money to do it conveniently and they were not in the frame of mind to strain a point. In fact, the report is that an unusually large amount of land is being left to summer fallow: partly because the land has been cropped pretty steadily for several years, while the cry was for "more production," and needs a rest, but also partly because the farmer has not seen that he could get back the cost of taking off a crop put in with hired help and have anything worth while left for his trouble and risk.

The cool weather has, to some considerable extent, offset both the financial stringency among the farmers, and their discouraging doubts about the money returns from the season's operations. It has multiplied man power and horse power, and enlarged the area that the farmer could put in by his own labor and that of the help he felt that he could and would be justified to employ. As a result, a good many acres are or will be, under crop which otherwise must have lain idle.

It is a peculiarity of the present situation that while the prize offered for making a farm produce is uncertain, and at the best likely to be smaller than for some years, there has never been a time when Canada, for domestic and financial reasons, had more need of both a large crop acreage and a good yield from it. Nationally, we are "in bad" as regards our commercial standing abroad. The Canadian dollar still hangs away below the dollar mark in New York. There is only one way to bring it up to par: increased export of products, largely farm products at sadly reduced prices. We have to pay the war debt; also out of production. And with wages generally on the down grade the hope of industrial peace and a market for labor in Canada is that the cost of living will not start soaring again. Nationally we shall have to make up in volume what our products have lost in unit value; farm products included. So far as the West is concerned, and this part of the West in particular, the weather is doing its bit.

ALBERTA CROP CONDITIONS VERY FAVORABLE AT PRESENT

Crop conditions are as favorable as it is possible to have them this year. In the opinion of H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture. Not only are moisture conditions throughout the province very satisfactory, but the season is opening up well, and the crop is being sown in good time. Now that the weather is getting warm, the seed that is already in the ground will germinate rapidly, and the wheat that is up will shoot ahead in good shape. No adverse conditions are reported from any part of the province; there have been some cold nights, but no damage has resulted.

Owing to the cold weather and the rains the grasshoppers have not started to hatch, so no prognostications from that source can be made.

The potato crop is likely to be quite as large as last year, according to present indications and this in spite of the present low price of potatoes.

There is a definite indication of a great increase in the acreage to be sown to silage crops, and a large number of silos will be erected this year. In the South, particularly where the agricultural train went through, they laid special stress on the silo crop, and found a great interest among the farmers in this departure. As yet there seems to be no special preference for the different silo crops, and it is probable that oats, corn and sunflowers will be sown for that purpose.

The government is putting in a pit silo at the Athabasca demonstration farm and it is probable that the farmers throughout the provinces will try out the pit silos this year to a considerable extent.

The one at the Athabasca farm will be ten feet deep, twelve feet wide and twenty-five feet long, being rather in the nature of a trench. It will be lined with native spruce posts hewn on three sides and will be covered earth and straw, so there will be no actual cash outlay except for labor. The spruce posts will be set close together so that no other lining will be a great factor in their favor. The feed will be taken out at Athabasca by means of a litter carrier, and the silo will be placed right beside the barn.

There has been a big inquiry for brood sows, the farmers apparently anxious to get back into the raising of hogs. There will be a big increase in the hog population of the province this year, as many of the cows that were sent to market last year went back to the country for breeding. The condition among the litters is about on an average with other years, some losses being reported but nothing of any special import.

The lamb crop has been exceedingly large this year, the mild winter helped out the ewes getting lots of exercise and coming through in a very healthy condition.

Your Red Cross Calls

Red Cross to-day is the vision of a wonderful ideal. Faith and effort can carry it to a glorious reality.

Its peace-time mission is to save lives and to help the suffering, exactly as it was on the battlefield.

It can ward off disease from your child and mine and the child that is yet unborn and make the world a better place for him to live in. It can ward off pestilence and contagion from your own community and so protect us all. It can help weld all the people of our country and of all the other countries into the common brotherhood of sympathy that is so necessary now if humanity is to keep to the path of progress.

Red Cross has not forgotten the crippled, the blinded, the helpless, or the simply unsettled remnants of war, in our hospitals and throughout our land.

She remembers them, and has the resources and devotion to care for them, but she also has a new and a broad work to do for which your endorsement is now asked.

The membership enrolment is a nation-wide reminder to everyone who has ever helped the Red Cross, or been helped by it—and who has not—to renew their allegiance to its sacred emblem, identify themselves by their membership with its effort to better the condition of humanity at home, throughout our Dominion, all over the world.

When you could see with your own eyes that your son was in danger and could be helped, you did not hesitate. You can still see the dangers that surround him everywhere, if you will but look with the eyes of understanding.

Learn all about the Red Cross Mission for health. Join the Red Cross and enlist in its crusade.

RURAL CREDITS

No person conversant with rural conditions will deny that there is a great need for a system of rural credits which will be a sort of happy medium between our banking system and the long term mortgage system. The farmer needs financial assistance for periods longer than those which good banking permits and shorter than the five-year-term which mortgage companies usually require. A system which would provide loans for periods ranging from one to three years would be a great boon to the farming community generally.

It is often urged on the public platform by farmer representatives that the Canadian banking system has signally failed to meet the requirements of the farmer, but careful study of the facts shows that this is not fair criticism and in many instances it is based on misconception of the powers of the chartered banks. Our prominent bankers agree that there is a great field for financial institutions in rural credit banking but it is a difficult problem to handle. No matter how much our banks would like to handle loans for periods of two or three years the banking laws of the country will not permit them to do so and furthermore sound banking would not permit them to loan deposits subject to withdrawal at a moment's notice on loans for lengthy periods.

The Manitoba government has made a laudable attempt to solve the rural credits problem and has thus far been reasonably successful, but it would seem that the real solution must depend upon co-operation between the bankers and the farmers. If the farmers in a district would combine and guarantee the payment at maturity of all loans made by the banks to the farmers in the district, success would in all probability ensue, it being understood that all loans advanced would be subject to the approval of the farmers as a whole or their duly elected representatives. In a new country such as this is there must be co-operation between the farmers and the bankers if the greatest measure of success is to be achieved and the introduction of provincial government into any such scheme savors of paternalism. The great need of this and all other countries is to have less of the government in our business and more of business in our government.

WESTERN PREMIER PRESS
DOMINION FOR RESOURCES

Another effort to get from the Dominion government some definite assurance of the question of the natural resources will be made by representatives of the western provinces during the next couple of weeks. Premier Stewart of Alberta left for Ottawa this week to take up with Premier Meighen and cabinet the matter of Manitoba also left for the east on the same mission. Although no concerted action has been arranged between the western premiers it is likely that the resources case of the western provinces will be pressed at the same time. In fact Premier Meighen at the conference last year gave the western representatives an explicit statement that in any event the Dominion would not deal with the three provinces separately in a settlement, but that the resources would have to be returned on terms of equality for all.

Premier Stewart hopes to get some definite response from the Dominion leaders at this stage in view of the promise given by Premier Meighen last year that a rough accounting would be prepared by federal authorities as to the values of alienated resources, and on which an offer might be based for submission to the prairie provinces. At any rate it is felt that the next move is up to the Dominion since the province long ago laid their case and demands before Ottawa.

TEACHERS FOR ALL SCHOOLS

It is decidedly different and equally gratifying to learn that there is an ample supply of teachers for Alberta schools. Last spring there were several hundred schools standing closed in this province because teachers could not be secured. Now, it is said there are enough teachers in sight to "man" every school in the province. Stating it in industrial terms, the output has overtaken the demand. For the sake of the children, and likewise of their tax-paying parents it is to be hoped that the shortage of teachers has vanished permanently.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

The national debt of Canada is now $2,350,356,700. over $261 for every man, woman and child in the country on the basis of nine millions of population. To carry on successfully during the coming year there is required the sum of $592,437,697 or $65 per head. By refunding or renewing maturing obligations on the national railways and capitalizing an expenditure of $47,491,953 for soldiers' settlement, housing loans and sinking funds, the total amount to be raised by taxation is reduced to $435,360,971 or $48 per head of population.

ANOTHER ARCTIC EXPEDITION

Another expedition into the Arctic regions in two or three years, is planned by Vilhjalmur Stefaneson, the explorer, he has announced. "The centre of the ice-bound regions of the north never has been reached by man," he said. "The north pole region is 450 miles from the edge of the icy area, while the centre is 800 miles from the edge. We are centering our interest on getting to the centre and finding out what is there. I have no theories. It may be land or ice."

A NOVEL HELICOPTER

The completion of a novel helicopter which is being "assembled" at the Royal Aircraft establishment England, is expected to mark an important stage in the development of the heavier-than-air flying machine. Horizontal propellers, the main feature of helicopters, are intended to enable the machine to rise vertically from the ground and, if necessary, to hover over a particular spot. The helicopter has been designed by Lois Brennan, inventor of the torpedo and of the gyroscopic monorail train, and the construction is being carried out by a staff of picked workmen in an isolated part of the factory.

DISARMAMENT LIMIT FIXED

The time limit for disarmament by Germany is fixed absolutely as June 30, in an allied note presented to the German government. The note, which concerns executions of the recent ultimatum, demands that the organization of the German army of 100,000 be brought into conformity with the peace treaty by June 15, superfluous munitions and unauthorized fortress equipment surrendered by May 31 and all arms in possession of civilians by June 10.

Germany is required to endorse by May 30 the list of munition factories authorized by the allies and stop the output of unauthorized factories. The note further deals with the question of police and demands a reduction in all classes of police to a total of 150,000 by July 15th.

OIL WELLS IN ALBERTA

There will be more than fifty modern oil drilling rigs in operation within the province of Alberta before the summer is over, it is now estimated, of which twenty will be by the Imperial Oil Company. Besides the northern fields, the Lincher Creek, Nanton and Waterton lakes districts are said to be likely scenes of drilling operations, with the prospect of both British and American capital becoming interested.

A NEW TELEPHONE SCHEME BETWEEN ALBERTA CITIES

"Wired wireless" will soon be in operation between Edmonton and Calgary. An order has been placed by the government telephone department for the installation of a carrier current system of multiplex telephony between the two cities, by which it will be possible greatly to increase the talking service over the existing lines without putting in additional wires.

When the new equipment is installed six telephone conversations and as many as sixteen telegraph messages can be sent over the two pairs of wires simultaneously, all of them being straightened out at the end of the line.

It is expected that the work of installing the equipment will be carried out during the summer and that the multiplex system, which is spoken of in telephone circles as "wired wireless," will be in use by the autumn.

The introduction of this new idea in the telephone service has been decided upon by the government in order to provide needed expansion for the Edmonton-Calgary business without stretching additional wires. It will be the first installation of the kind in Canada, though the scheme is already in successful operation on some of the American telephone lines.

WHEN TO PLANT SUNFLOWERS

During the past summer, the department of agriculture of Alberta carried out a series of very interesting experiments as to the manner of seeding sunflowers so as to produce the heaviest yields. In view of the great interest that is being taken in this new silage crop throughout the prairie provinces the results obtained will be of great value to numerous dairy and stock men.

It has been found that the difference between seeding on spring and fall plowing is very small—fall plowing having a slight advantage. To get the best results the land, too, ments showed that highest yields were obtained from land sown about May 31st. For these test plots were sown at seven-day intervals from May 14th to June 10th, the crops harvested increasing from 30.87 tons to the acre, seeded on May 14th, to 35.66 tons when planted on May 31st, decreasing to 31.99 tons to the acre on June 10th.

The heaviest yields were obtained when drilled in rows thirty inches apart. In districts, nowever, where the rainfall is not so heavy during the growing season, it might be advisable to have the rows slightly farther apart. The plants should be thinned out with a hoe from four to eight inches apart.

What Do We Plant?

What do we plant when we plant a tree?
We plant a ship which will cross the sea,
We plant a mast to carry the sails,
We plant the beams to withstand the gales—
A keel, a keelson, and prow and knee;

We plant a ship when we plant a tree;
What do we plant when we plant a tree?
We plant a house for you and me,
We plant the pillars, the shingles, the floors,
We plant the studding, the laths, the doors,
The rafters and roof, all parts that be;
We plant a home when we plant a tree.

What do we plant when we plant a tree?
A thousand boons that we daily see;
We plant a spire to out-climb the craig,
We plant a staff for our country's flag
We plant a shade, from the fierce sun free;
We plant all wealth when we plant a tree!

ORNAMENTAL TREES ABOUT PRAIRIE HOMES

That the attractiveness of a place can be greatly increased by the planting of shrubs and flowers is known to all. But on the prairies there are certain conditions which determine success in growing ornamental plants. It has been demonstrated at the Dominion Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, that many shrubs which winter-kill in the open are quite hardy when sheltered by a belt of trees. Therefore, it is advisable to defer the ornamental planting until sufficient shelter has been established by the wind-break. On the ordinary home stead or new farm in the West there are many things, such as erecting buildings and fences, which are of more importance than ornamentation. But as the farm grows older there will be greater opportunities to plant shrubbery and improve the appearance of the place. That these conditions will arise at some future time should be kept in mind when arranging for the planting of trees—N. M. Ross, Chief of Tree-Planting Division, Indian Head.

Two Irishmen recently died, aged 119 and 120. The former smoked and the latter did not, so the former's untimely death may be laid to use of the weed.

Short Stories Of A Soldiers' Life

Now the above incident had taken less time in the acting than it does in these words, and before the fellow got another shot at me I was in the shell hole. It was a roomy shell hole and I sat on the side of it that would let me be able to see over at the Hun. I had a notion that the sniper would try and get round me and finally finish me off and as my revolver was just a couple of yards away I figured that if that happened I would make a dive for it. Like a silly fool I had forgotten to put the lanyard round my neck when we started out and that is why I now found myself without my weapon.

Holy Pete! the pain was awful after a few minutes and I had some time to keep from fainting. It came like a rolling cloud of gas and when it came to the worst pitch it seemed to take my body and give me a nasty heaving twisting motion, and the top of my head seemed to lift for a couple of inches or so. Gee! It was nice! and I wondered how long I could stand it.. I looked around suddenly for the runner when I came back to earth and I saw him crouched in a shell hole twenty yards or so away to my right. I called of him and told him to come to me, but he only got farther down into the shell hole until his eyes were all that was visible to me. I was raving at this kind of treatment and I told him to come over again giving vent to some of the very choicest oaths that had maybe ever been heard on that front. This time he got up and run towards my hole. The Huns shot at him twice on the way but he missed getting hit, and landed in the hole in a heap.

I had had some notion of getting the runner to dress my arm for me but when he came into the hole he was so nervous that I was afraid to let him dress it for fear that I would faint under his treatment. So I told him to get my bandages out of my tunic corner, and when he tried to get them he was shaking so much that he could hardly keep hold of the cloth of the tunic let alone get the bandage out. I had a trench dagger in a holster on the left side of my body, and pulling it out with my left hand, I told him to tear the tunic away and get the bandage. This he did and after he had the bandage in his hands I told him to put a tie on my wrist and to carry the ends of the bandage around my neck and tie them there. When this was done I got him to put another tie in a simliar manner about the middle of the forearm. When this was done I took a hurried look over the top for the Fritz had started to shell in our direction and it was getting hotter all the time.

I could not see the man who had shot me and wondered in a dazed fashion if he were even then trying to get to apoint of vantage to finish us off.

The fire of the enemy got steadily worse and there were quite a few shells landing right round us. To top it all our own artillery started to reply to the shelling of the Hun and our shells were directed to the same place as the shells of the enemy, and we were in that place.

Holy Pete! It was a warm corner, and to make it worse, I saw a few of the enemy start in our direction. They were about 300 yards from us. A little while after, I looked over once more and was surprized and not little put out to see that the enemy were starting a counter attack. It was even then in progress, for they were coming forward a few at a time. This was no grand one and all that we used to hear so much about, but a steady advance under covering fire. Just the same stuff that I had many a time gone through in training. The Huns were coming forward for about twenty yards, and in parties of about 10 or 15 then they would flop down come along to them.

It looked nice to see them coming so. It looked like a drill and as our line over the hill could not see them they were wasting a lot of ammunition on the cover fire. I suddenly realized that this was no place for me and I asked Brown what he thought we should do. He said that we should wait there until night and then go back under cover of the friendly darkness, but of course I saw it was now or never and I said, "I guess that you have not seen Fritz coming?" He looked over the top of the shell hole and then he had a hard time to keep from bolting.

I decided to try and get back, though the odds were very much against us in that direction, for we would be seen, that was certain, by the Huns and then it was trust to the Lord to bring you back through for it hardly seemed possible to get away from their combined rifle and machine gun fire.

I took a look over the top to the rear of the shell hole and decided to go to the next shell hole. I told Brown that as soon as I called he was to come to where I was. I crouched to jump up and into the shell hole and as I crouched it suddenly struck me that I would get shot in the back as soon as I showed myself, and for a second I hesitated. The hesitation was the saving of my life for just then one of our own shells dropped into the hole with a mighty roar and I was knocked back onto the far side of our hole. Believe me it did not take me long to get to my feet and go into the shell hole that the shell had just dropped in. The smoke was still there and the earth was reeking with the fumes of the explosive. I called Brown and he came like a shot. I then went to another hole and we continued in this way for about 100 yards.

Every time we would show up, the Huns would shoot at us and it is a miracle that we did not all get shot to pieces. There was also shelling enough going on around us to blow a good sized town down to the ground in a short time. Lots of the shells dropped inside a 50 yards radius of us and a few as close as to hit us hard with the concussion of the explosion, but we neither of us got a scratch. After we had gone from shell hole to shell hole for some little distance I got reckless and seemed to be immune from reath so I started to walk over the top without going into any shell holes at all. I had gone for only a few yards when I remembered Brown and on turning to see where he was I saw him crawling through a small piece of cover and I turned right around and stood and cursed him in a manner unbecomting to the occasion. I well remember that time for I could see the Hun, down the valley, through a mist of smoke set up by the bursting shells and there were little messengers of around me. The bullets were plowing up the ground right at my feet and in every direction that I looked, and I remember that I felt like a big, targe fronted house and, that I could be easily hit.

As soon as I cursed Brown he came on like the very wind. It seemed that cursing put some fear into him, more than did the death on every side. We continued our way out, I could not run for I had tried to nad my arm would not let me, it pained unbearably when I tried to run. While we were thus going out I saw a Lewis gun about 30 yards to my right and had a desire to go over and see if it was in working order, and if so train it on the advancing enemy. But the thought passed, for I saw that there was no pan of ammunition on it and I saw no ammunition around there at any place, so I decided to continue on out.

Without further mishap we got over the ridge and as soon as we were clear of the Hun rifle I told Brown "For God's sake look for some water." I was parched.

We passed the end of the front line and I yelled that the Hun was advancing. Some of the boys jumped onto the top of the parapet and were going to go forward but were called back by someone.

Now came an ironical situation, though I did not introduce this into the story as far as we have gone. I want to tell you that every time that I had gone up to the line, on the time I took the ammunition party and when I took reinforcements, I had run into some of our wounded lying out in shell holes and I had got them water and food from the dead that were laid around, and now when I was in the wounded category myself I could not find a drop of water on the route at all, mostly because I had cleaned it up myself to give to other wounded before. I recognized some of the dead men that I had taken water and rations from. It was not until we got to the sunken road, to the place that we had had the feed on the previous afternoon, that I got a small drink from a bottle that we had not emptied the previous time.

As we were going out, Brown, who was still shaking, asked me if I knew where we were going. I answered blown in and there was only a little hole near the bottom where one could have got through. Hello! I yelled down stairs and a man put his head out into the hole and asked what I wanted. I asked him what had happened and he said a shell had dropped there about an hour ago and had killed three men, of course I could see that a shell had dropped there and was rather foolish to ask the question. I now went to the other entrance that was a few yards down the sunken road and going down into the depths for the dugout was deeper here than it was at the other entrance. I went up to one of the stretcher bearers and asked him to dress my wound for me first asking him for a drink of rum which he gave me without question.

He then started to dress my arm and while he was at the job the Capt. (doctor) came down into the dugout and stood on the bottom step watching him dress my arm. The stretcher bearer was cutting my sleeve of my coat and when he came to the scout badge that I was wearing, (a red one) he said "Souvenir?" "Souvenir what?" I answered for I was miles away. "Do you want this for a souvenir?" he said pointing with his scissors to the badge. you want this for a souvenir?" he said bullet had hit about an inch below the badge and without doubt it would have made a nice souvenir, but I was not thinking of souvenirs just then.

After a while, he was taking a long time to dress me and there were no others waiting he said, "Why in hell didn't you dress this when you were wounded?" I did not think of him not knowing of the circumstances under which I was wounded, and started to curse him roundly and the Doctor started to laugh, he had been down in with an oath that I sure did. I had a large many colored picture of Blighty hung up right in front of me and I was going to it as fast as I could.

We came to the sunken road and I decided to go in the Zollen trench where the boys were on the O.P. so we pulled down the road for a way. Fritz was shelling around us more or less, but to me after what we had just been through it seemed like no shelling at all. We got to the trench and the boys were anxious to know if my wound was good for a blighty, I told them that I thought so and continued, followed by their wishes for a good blighty trip, down the trench to headquarters.

LITTLE ADVTs—BIG RESULTS

RESEARCH WORK IN FORESTRY

The necessity for well organized research work in forestry becomes more and more manifest as the forests become more mature and timber operations develop. Forest research is an essential part of the forestry programme in all countries where forest management is taken up seriously, and if Canada wishes to remain in the van of progress and have her forest practice based on sound scientific and permanent principles, thorough scientific and careful study of the forests and forest trees should be organized on a basis adequate to the importance of the forest and to Canada, as one of the greatest forest countries in the world.—Annual Report, Director of Forestry, Ottawa.

Recent Amendments Alberta Legislation

AN ACT TO AMEND THE WILD LAND TAX ACT

The exemption owing to cultivation where the owner has several portions of land within a radius of nine miles shall apply, though the lands are not in the same assessment district.

Every quarter section upon which active mining operations are carried on together with not more than three quarter sections contiguous thereto, if owned by the same person as the first mentioned quarter section, shall be exempt from the tax under this Act.

Where any corporation or person has for the purpose of irrigating land actually expended on irrigation works a sum at least equivalent to fifteen dollars per acre of the number of acres capable of and intended to be irrigated, then every quarter section included in such land if a fourth part of such is capable of irrigation, shall be exempt from the tax under this Act.

Provided that there shall be no exemption in respect of any land sold or agreed to be sold by such corporation or person nor in respect to any lands after the irrigation works have been constructed or in respect to any land after December, 1926.

The authority to levy and collect the taxes in the case of land situated in a municipal district shall vest in such district and be regulated by the provisions of The Municipal Districts Act and the Tax Recovery Act, and in the case of land situated in any improvement district, shall vest in the Department of Municipal Affairs and be regulated by the provisions of The Tax Recovery Act. Provided that in any year an appeal may be made as to whether any land assessed as wild land is liable to taxation under this Act.

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF CHILDREN AND POOR PERSONS

"Child," shall include illegitimate child and any child of any child and the child of a husband or wife by a former marriage. Father shall include grandfather and mother include grandmother.

The husband, wife, father, mother and child of every old, blind, lame, mentally deficient or impotent person or of any other poor person who is not able to work, shall provide maintenance including food, clothing medical and lodging for such person.

The father of and mother of every child under the age of sixteen shall provide maintenance for such child. No such person shall be liable to provide such maintenance if he is unable to do so out of his own property or by means of his own labor, nor to provide such maintenance for any person who is able to maintain himself.

The husband shall be primarily liable for the maintenance of his wife and the wife for that of her husband. The liability of the mother shall not arise unless the father is unable and she is able to maintain the person in respect to whom the order is sought, nor shall the liability of the grandfather arise unless both the father and the mother are unable and he is able to provide such maintenance, nor that of the grandmother unless the father, mother and the grandfather are all unable and she is able to provide such maintenance, and the liability of a grandchild shall not arise where any child is able to maintain such person.

Where any person is liable under this act to maintain a child or any poor person, and fails to do so then the attorney general or the mayor or the chairman of the council of the city, town, village, or municipal district in which such person resides may upon application to a judge of the district court in which such person resides obtain a maintenance order against such person.

Any person who wilfully fails to comply with the terms of an order shall be liable upon summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and in default of payment to imprisonment not exceeding three months.

AN ACT TO AMEND THE SUPPLEMENTARY REVENUE ACT

The Assessor shall assess by valuation and in 1920 and every fifth year therefrom after the disposal of appeals and revision of assessments, he shall forward to the Department of Municipal Affairs a statement showing in detail the total assessed value of the land assessed by valuation and of the acreage held under grazing leases from the Government of Canada.

If the total equalized assessment as fixed by the Board differs from that fixed by the assessor the difference shall be distributed by a pro rata raising or lowering of the assessment of the parcels, subject to any special directions as to assessment of classes of land given by the Board.

Where no assessment notices were sent out in 1920 the council of a municipal district or in the case of an improvement district, the Minister may instruct the assessor in 1921 before June 1st to send out such notices receive, hear and decide appeals and allot to the assessment of the parcels any difference between total amended roll and the amount of the equalized assessment fixed by the Board. The Minister is given authority to compromise arrears of taxes on lands which have been subdivided, whether the plan has been cancelled or not. The Municipality shall be paid five per cent of the amount collected by it under this Act.

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR AN ULTIMATE HEIR OF LANDS AND NEXT OF KIN OF INTESTATE PERSONS

When any person dies intestate leaving lands in Alberta or being domiciled in Alberta dies intestate leaving personal property in the province and no person is otherwise than under this Act entitled thereto, then the person dying intestate shall be deemed to have made a will devising or bequeathing such property to the University of Alberta.

The Discovery Of MacKenzie River Oil Fields

Now that the opening of the oil fields of the North West Territories has aroused such widespread interest, the true tale of their discovery may be worth while.

The current story that Canada's certain geologists from afar, who visnew oil field was found recently by ited Alberta for the first time in 1919, ie entirely false, and doubtless would be contradicted by these gentlemen. The oil fields were determined and the oil well was located seven years ago whilely and solely by British Canadian pioneers, geologists and business men.

Oil seepages in the morth were found and first recorded about 130 years ago by the xplorer MacKenzie, and they were further noticed also by Franklin a century ago. If the "oil age" had dawned sooner these men would have been known as the discoverers of the field.

Subsequently, seepages in various localities were found by R. G. McConnell, of the Canadian Geological Survey, and were referred to in the report of his exploration of the MacKenzie basin in 1891. But it was not until 1914 that professional oil geologists surveyed the region and located the commercial quantities of oil.

Early in 1914, just before the main Alberta "oil boom" a little group of enterprising and far-sighted Canadians met in Calgary and planned this discovery which is so important today. Their geologist had "turned down" the Okotoks field. But what of that? There must be oil somewhere in this country so let him go after it wherever it may be.

The outlook in 1914 was very different from that of today. At that time there were no rainways to McMurray, or to Peace River, and the only way in was by scow down the rapids of the Athabasca. Crude oil, moreover, was worth only a fraction of its value today.

Thus at the beginning of May 1914 when oil men from all over America were flocking to Calgary, an expedition set out from Edmonton to the north. The party included four geologists, namely: Dr T. O. Bosworth, P. C. Bosworth, A. H. Low and A. Proctor. They travelled with the Northern Trading Co's fleet, and their search was continuous throughout the whole of the 170 miles of northern waterway, and parties were sent out also east and west at many points.

At some places where good prospects had been expected, none was to be found; whilst some of the best things turned up in most unexpected places. By the end of the summer the main features of the stratigraphy and the structure had been determined. One of the interesting scientific results was the finding of an important system of large anticlinal fould in tritory where strata had previously been supposed to be horizontal. Also a thick and highly petroliferous formation was found within the Devonian region, and giving rise to numerous seepages of oil on the flanks of the anticlines. But the results of these surveys are too big a subject for this article.

During the epedition all conclusions were carefully concealed, for there were only three of the party available to stake claims on the MacKenzie. The staking of these claims was done secretly to avoid being surrounded by others. This was rather difficult and caused two of the party a long hard journey out, very late in the year, after the last steamboat had gone south. But it was decided worth while for it was on these claims that the Imperial Oil Co has struck oil and had it not been for precautions in 1914, it might have cost a very large sum in 1919 to buy up the surrounding claims.

As the party were so few in number only one of the Mackenzie oil fields could be filed upon in 1914. And so great care was taken to select a place where some production was practically sure, though this may not in the end, prove to be the best field.

The same care was also taken in selecting the well site for it was deemed most impartoat that the very first well should get production. Failure of the first well might have put off the opening of the field for twenty years.

During the ensuing years many people were approached by the explorers with a view to getting operations started in the north and hope was never given up. At length in 1919, the Imperial Oil Co. decided to drill the test well and develop the field. They acquired the leases, and at an heavy expense they overcame all obstacles and drilled the well. That success has crowned their efforts must be a matter of satisfaction to all for in this the company has done a service to the country for which they deserve a good return.

Further important investigation in the Mackenzie river are now being made by the Canadian geological survey and their forthcoming reports will no doubt be eagerly looked forward to club boast a membership of 950 members.

All sessions of the convention will be held in Convocation hall, University of Alberta, and the arrangements have been made to accommodate all delegates in the University residences

This will be one of the most important conventions which has ever taken place in Canada. The last convention was held two years ago in Toronto. It is expected that the International organization will be completed at the convention here in June and organized for the past ten years and it is hoped representatives will come from that country. Last year the international constitution was drawn up by the federal committee and has been approved of by the English and Scottish Institutes. At the present time Enmonton is the headquarters of the Federal Institute of Canada.

A well known judge fell down a flight of stairs, recording his passage by a bump on every step until he reached the bottom. A servant ran to his assistance, and raising him up, said: "I hope your honor is not hurt." "No." said the judge, sternly, "my honor is not hurt, but my head is."

It is easy to say what you would do in another man's place, but when it comes to doing it in your own place —well that's different.

There are many ways of doing any given thing, but relatively few good ways and only one best way. Good methods suggest better methods, and the better methods lead to the best method, which is the goal—success.

Patient old Job would have made an ideal ultimate consumer.

companies have had the advantages of lightning rods so impressed upon them by actual results that most of them grant a preference in rates to rodded risks.

Unfortunately for the lightning rod industry, some thirty or more years ago many farmers were swindled by unscrupulous agents, and the experience is still remembered in many farm homes, to the disadvantage of representatives of the companies now in the field. It would seem the part of wisdom for an educational campaign to be initiated by the farmers themselves, to impress upon the rural population, in no unbiassed manner, the almost absolute protection to their lives and property which can be secured through the installation of an efficient and thoroughly inspected system of lightning rods. The Ontario Fire Marshal has recently published in pamphlet form an address by Mr. George F. Lewis, on Lightning: its Origin and Control, which will be sent upon request.
